

You work in a school in a coastal town of the Island. There are three group classes for each level with an average of 24 students per class. The school has a high percentage of immigration and cultural diversity from 19 different countries.

The school is working on becoming a learning community, so a plan is being developed in order to increase and promote the participation of all families in the school life. This plan offers a variety of interdisciplinary activities throughout the year.

The English department must take part in this plan through the use of the ELP (European Language Portfolio) and organise a series of activities in order to include family participation and interaction.
